Wilma S. Matz Volunteer of the Year: Sister Antoinette

Our Wilma S. Matz Volunteer of the Year for 2015 is Sister Antoinette who has been serving at the Food Pantry since our premises were at the Hindry location, a number of years ago. Sister Antoinette is a member of the Sacred Heart of Mary religious order which she entered when she was eighteen.

She grew up in the New York area (Bronx and Brooklyn) with five siblings of which she is the lone survivor. After entering the religious order in New York, she taught in Catholic schools for many years primarily in Southern California, but also for two years in Rome and five years in Mexico. Sister Antoinette says she taught at the elementary level as well as the high school level. When she was teaching abroad, it was in international schools in English, and she taught all subjects. After teaching at the elementary and high school levels for more than thirty-five years, she continued to teach English as a second language for another fifteen or so years, finally ending her teaching career when she was 83. She said her favorite subject was English because of the literature and the ESL aspect.

She now spends her time serving others and enjoying more quiet time for prayer and reflection. Part of her service is in visiting older single people, and she says, "I love the people I visit because they are older than I am," a wonderful approach for staying young. We enjoy her warm and happy presence in the Food Pantry, and congratulate her on being our Volunteer of the Year.

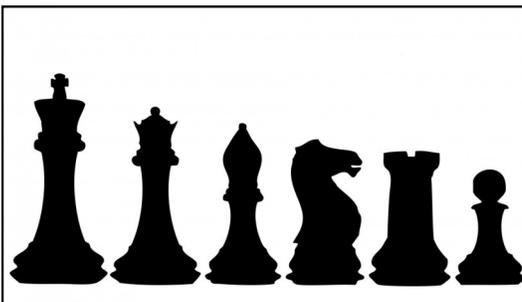

Client Profile: Highlight on Beverly

One of our clients is Beverly, who has been coming to the Food Pantry for groceries for about nine months. Beverly is a native of Southern California who went away to school at Grambling University with aspirations to become an orthopedic surgeon. However, while in college she caught meningitis and had to return home to recover. After her return, she had to care for other family members and within a year's time she lost both parents, several aunts and uncles, and several cousins, totaling seven family members. She had been working as a nurse but had to leave that job to care for family.

very discouraging time. She has been living with friends recently, and she has some part time work.

Notwithstanding, her troubles she says she has a positive attitude now, and said the Bible says you should count everything as joy and she tries to do that. In her free time, she likes to listen to religious music, read, and play chess. She said she plays chess with herself; after each move, she rotates the board and takes the other side. That guarantees she is bound to win every game! ♦

She had most recently been working as a machine operator, but was laid off after three years and then lost her apartment in which she had been living for fifteen years. She said it was a

Sharing the Food Pantry Mission with WISH Charter School

A request came from a parent at WISH Charter School for someone to visit several first grade classes and talk to the young students about Food Pantry-LAX and what we do. Mary Thompson, who spent many years as a successful educator, volunteered for the task.

Food Pantry and we give them food. Mary brought a sample bag of groceries with her to show the children what kinds of foods are given to our customers. The sample bag had foods the children would recognize like macaroni and cheese, and spaghetti.

Mary visited WISH on a Tuesday afternoon. When she arrived at the school the Principal welcomed her and brought her to the first class of students. The children were sitting together on a rug and a small chair was set in while. Another child asked, "Where are you?" and Mary explained that the Food Pantry is located in Inglewood and described the location.

Mary visited three classes of first grade students that day. She said they were all very kind and respectful and that each class asked similar questions about the Food Pantry and the people who require our services.

The final class of the day presented Mary with a book of pictures they had drawn about the Food Pantry. The children in these classes showed Mary the food they had started collecting to donate to the Food Pantry. They have been gathering canned goods and will give them to the Food Pantry when they meet their collection goals.

Classes from WISH Charter School are coming in small groups to visit the Food Pantry. A group of older students came to the Food Pantry and were given a tour of the premises (which are quite small). These students were also very interested in the Food Pantry and asked lots of good questions. ♦

Letter from the Editor

Dear Food Pantry Supporters,

In November 2014, Food Pantry-LAX was featured alongside other local nonprofits in an article in the HomeTown News titled, Nonprofits making a difference in the community. The article provided a brief history of the Food Pantry as well as the services we provide and our contact information for community members interested in volunteering and/or donating food. If you are interested in reading the original article you can find it on the HomeTown News website: thehometownnews-online.com.

Sometime in the past year the Food Pantry Board of Directors voted in favor of purchasing a new sign for the exterior of the Food Pantry. The existing sign was severely faded making it difficult to identify the building. Our Board President, Scott Tanner was able to procure a lovely replacement sign and now the Board is looking for assistance mounting it to the building. If anyone is interested or able to help, please contact Scott Tanner at (310) 720-0139.

Food Pantry-LAX has a website! The site includes information on how to donate to the Food Pantry, our mission and history, hot meal services in the community, client information, past newsletters, contact information for our sponsoring churches and our contact information. We encourage you to take a look at foodpantrylax.org and we'd like to thank Tom Cox for donating many hours of his time putting the website together.

Sincerely,
Biz Tanner
